BOMB D'ARC TREE

Louis Graves in Facts &
Frances Column,
Nashville News

The States have influenced usage of the descriptive name of the bois d'arc tree.

There is an indication that Arkansas know this particular tree by the name of bois d'arc,
of French derivation. But down
in Texas, and this from Mrs.
Marguerite Wilson who once taught school there, folks call
the tree the Osage orange.

Osage orange is listed in the dictionary. The News 1968 Webster's dictionary which did not list the bois d'arc, DID list Osage orange.

The Osage orange is described as a spiny tree with orange-colored wood, used for hedges, etc. and its orangelike
fruit inedible.

Larry Renard, a graduate forester, has book information on the Osage orange and he's of low-Nebraska background. So the Midwest may call the tree
the Osage orange.

Surprisingly, most callers
said they found the word bois d'arc in older dictionaries. Like calls came from Hanel Hill at the library, Lucy Stone, Mrs.
Faye Nangle, and others.

The name Osage orange came from the Indian tribe of that name, while bois d'arc is of French heritage. The French, La Salle and De Soto, influenced early Arkansas where the Indian influence was greater in Texas and the midwest.

Bois d'arc or Osage orange,
the tree is the same and this little venture into words used or omitted, and their origin
created a small conversation piece.

Hairy problem simmering

PECOS, Tex. (AP) — A disagreement among two Texas
law enforcement officers
seethed today over whether the cutting of prisoner's hair hurts
the image of policemen in general.

An Associated Press story
Oct. 20 concerned Reeves County Sheriff A. B. Nail's policy of cutting prisoners' hair in order,
he said, to keep his jail clean.

This week, Patrolman G. C.
Bennett, a member of the Police-Community Relations Bureau of the Corpus Christi Police Department, fired a letter to Nail blasting the policy.

Bennett said that when he first read the AP story in the San Angelo Standard-Times, "I
first thought it was a preview
of the latest Western comedy."

Bennett's letter continued:
"It is departments like yours
that give us names such as Re-zall Rangers, pig, dogs, etc.
The way you stereotype long-hairs as being practically all thugs is one of the many reasons the public which we serve stereotypes us as no-good bastards."

Nail said he had not received the letter Wednesday, but he said a large quantity of mail
since the story came out favored his policy by a 25-1 margin.

Commenting on Bennett's
statement that he was a
"small-town cowboy sheriff," Nail cited his 36 years of law enforcement experience and stated, "I believe he (Bennett) needs to go back to school."

'End of war is at hand,' says Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger said today "peace is at hand" in Vietnam.

Kissinger told newsmen in an hour-long briefing that most major provisions of a settlement have been agreed to, but that one more negotiating session "lasting no more than three or four days" is necessary.

"We believe that peace is at hand," Kissinger said. "We believe that an agreement is in sight...which is just to all parties."

In breaking American silence
on the status of the peace efforts, Kissinger said the nine points outlined earlier today by North Vietnam are essentially correct.

He also said: "I want to stress that what remains to be done is the smallest part of what has already been accomplished."

The presidential adviser said
the remaining details are essentially linguistic and technical but need to be settled
before the United States and South Vietnam can sign a pact.

He listed what were "six or seven very concrete issues that with anything like the good will
that has been shown can easily be cleared up."

He included in his examples

the need from the U.S. side to specify that no move will be made to grab additional territory between the time of the cease-fire and a political settlement.

He also said there needs to be clarification on the timing of the Vietnamese settlement relative to the settlement of the conflicts in Laos and Cambodia.

Earlier, Herb Klein, the White House communications
director, had said a North Vietnamese broadcast saying the United States had agreed to sign an agreement but backed off was false. At a Cleveland news conference, Klein also rejected claims the United States is stalling negotiations.

Among other problems Kissinger said that need to be finally solved are whether Washington should sign the agreement on behalf of South Vietnam.

He said this was not a serious
difficulty but it is un-

(Summary of peace terms
on page 7)

derstandable that the South Vietnamese, who have suffered the most during the war and who must remain under the settlement, "should want to sign their own peace treaty."

On the issue of South Vietnam, the presidential aide said
there were both agreements and disagreements by Saigon
with the draft agreement.

But, South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu will accept a cease-fire, Kissinger said. He added that he believed the bitter expression of opposition from the Saigon leader
earlier this week to a coalition government was addressed to
"a previous plan, not this version."

In the first Saigon reaction to the announcement by Hanoi,
the government's official radio
said: "A separate agreement between North Vietnam and the United States does not concern
us in any way."

"We in South Vietnam," the broadcast continued, have the right of self-determination."

Kissinger said the Oct. 31
deadline for signing a final agreement was set by the North Vietnamese.

While the United States had indicated it "hoped" to draft a proposed pact by that date, it never committed itself to such a deadline, Kissinger stated.

When asked what would happen if the Oct. 31 deadline passes without a signing, Kissinger indicated his belief that negotiations would continue.

"I can't believe that when this program has been made an arbitrary deadline" will break
off the negotiations, he said.

It is up to the North Vietnamese, Kissinger said, to set the date of the concluding negotiating session. He did not say where that final session should be held, but Paris has been the site of the previous sessions.

Kissinger went over the nine points already disclosed by the North Vietnamese, listing them
in the main as a cease-fire to be observed in South Vietnam
in place and "at a time mutually agreed upon."

U.S. forces would be pulled out within 60 days of the signing with a total prohibition against any infiltration of forces from North Vietnam either across the demilitarized zone or from Laos or Cambodia.

Military supplies to forces in South Vietnam will be banned except for replacement on a one-to-one basis of worn-out or damaged equipment.

All prisoners, military and civilians, are to be returned parallel to the withdrawal of American forces and will be completed within 60 days of the agreement's signing.

Peace plan takes one on the chin

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects for a quick agreement on ending the Vietnam fighting
may have taken a stiff jolt with Hanoi's announcement today
and its public demand that the United States sign a purported agreement at the end of this month.

The White House initially was maintaining its silence about the secret peace negotiations on grounds that both sides had agreed not to talk about what went on in the private sessions.

However, North Vietnam's
detailed report saying that presidential adviser Henry A.
Kissinger had agreed to a war-ending deal, and then had backed off, put intense pressure on President Nixon's administration to set forth the U.S.

version publicly.

On past occasions the publication by the opposing sides of their stands taken in secret negotiations has indicated a breakdown in the negotiations.

comment

From the administration's standpoint, the North Vietnamese move could be seen as an effort to put pressure on Nixon to agree to a peace accord before the Nov. 7 U.S. election.

It also set Hanoi's portrayal of South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu as an obstacle to peace.

The North Vietnamese official statement, as broadcast by Hanoi Radio, accused the Nixon administration of "a lack of good will and of seriousness."
It contended that Washington was claiming difficulties with Saigon only as an excuse for not going ahead with an agreed deal.

The North Vietnamese summary of the peace terms says
it and the United States agreed to include a number of items presumably acceptable to the United States.

Late arrival fails to damper Shriver's campaign enthusiasm

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) —
Arriving in Texarkana about two and one-half hours behind schedule, Democratic vice presidential nominee R. Sargent Shriver said Wednesday night that he and his presidential running mate, Sen. George McGovern, are closing the gap between them and their Republican opponents.

Various polls have indicated that the McGovern-Shriver ticket trails President Richard
M. Nixon and Vice President
Spiro Agnew by wide margins in most of the country, he noted.

"We started behind," Shriver said. "McGovern has always started behind but we're getting up there close. We're gaining every day and Nixon is losing every day."

"All we need is enough days
and we can win."

Shriver had been scheduled
to speak at a rally in front of Texarkana's federal building,
which straddles the Texas-Arkansas line, but his plane was delayed at Brownsville, Tex., where a Mexican pilot who spoke no English lost his way
in heavy clouds around the airport there.

The pilot, flying alone, finally landed safely after airport officials located a person who spoke Spanish to relay landing instructions to him. Shriver's plane then was able to take off for Texarkana.

A crowd estimated by police at 3,000 waited in front of the federal building in 45-degree weather for about one and one-half hours before dispersing at word that Shriver would be delayed too long to speak.

Shriver had been scheduled

to reach Texarkana about 8

p.m., the hour the rally began,

but his plane did not arrive at the airport here until about 10:30 p.m.

Speaking briefly with newsmen at a motel before retiring

for the night, Shriver renewed

his attacks on the Nixon administration over the Watergate incident.

The controversy flared in June when five men, including a former member of the security staff of Nixon's campaign committee, were caught trying to break into headquarters of the Democratic National Committee in Washington with electronic eavesdropping equipment.

Shriver said he was disturbed

because "four or five of the principal people involved" were former Central Intelligence

Agency agents.

The vice presidential nominee

noted that when the CIA was organized in 1947 it was prohibited from activity in the United States, and was designed to compete with intelligence operations of the Soviet Union and other nations.

Chili supper proceeds pay for machine

Hope Bobcats Ricky Brown, at left, Wade
Harris, and Mike Downs get in an afternoon workout on the athletic department's new weight lifting machine. The Hope Booster Club purchased the machine with proceeds from the annual chili supper. This year's chili supper is slated for Friday night at the high school cafeteria prior to Hope's homecoming game with

Camden. Serving hours are from 5 to 7 p.m.
Tickets are available from Booster Club members or at the door. Tickets are $1 for adults and 75 cents for children. The chili supper is the only fund raising project of the club. Proceeds from this project help furnish Bobcat baseball uniforms, equipment for the athletic department, and the annual all-sports banquet.

Open house set at Mission Center Sunday

Rev. Bob Gross, director of special ministries for the Hope Baptist Association, above, prepares the Migrant Mission Center for its open house set from 2:30 to 4:30 Sunday afternoon. The official dedicatory service will start at 3 p.m. Rev. R. H. Dorris of Little Rock, director of missions for the Arkansas Baptist State Convention, in the center, in right photo, will give the opening remarks. Rev. Gerald Trussell, pastor of the First Baptist Church here and chairman of the Mission Center Committee will lead the congregational response, and Rev. Gross will deliver a history of the mission center. Dr. J. Everett Sneed of Little Rock, editor of Arkansas Baptist News Magazine will give the response and dedicatory prayer. Rev. Leo Hughes of Texarkana, superintendent of missions for the local association, will bring the closing remarks. Tours of the center and the migrant workers' rest camp across Highway 67 will be conducted by Rev. Gross and Rev. Vernon Wickliffe, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church of Hope. The public has been invited to attend.

ASC nomination deadline is Friday, few sign up

Not enough nominations have yet been received at the Hempstead County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office for ASC community committee seats, reports Ralph Montgomery, ASC Committee Chairman. Hempstead County has five communities with each community electing three community committee representatives on December 1, 1972.

"If no more nominating petitions are received by Friday, each ASC Community Committee will have to select the rest of six nominees itself," Montgomery said. Regulations required at least six nominees for each ASC community committee election.

According to the County ASC committee chairman, procedure for nomination is not complicated. Candidates are nominated by petition. Each petition must be signed by at least three eligible voters in the community. The petition may be on any sheet of paper. No special forms are required, but the petition must include a statement that the candidate will serve if elected. Eligible farmers may sign as many petitions as they wish.

Most farmers are eligible for election to ASC committees. To qualify as a candidate, a nominee must be under 70 years of age, have farming interests in the community in which he is nominated, and be eligible to participate in ASCS programs.

This includes producers, sharecroppers, and tenants. Whether selected by the committee or petitioned by his neighbors, each nominee must agree to serve in the office to which he is elected. All petitions nominations will be reviewed to determine the validity of each.

If less than six candidates are nominated by petition the ASC community committee will complete the slate of six nominees and send the completed slate to the County ASCS Office by October 27, 1972.

All eligible nominees will receive letters from the County ASC Committee containing a description of a committeeman's responsibilities. Candidates declared ineligible will also receive letters indicating why their nominations were rejected. They may appeal the decision within 15 days.

Nixon-McG debate planned—sans Nixon

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

Democratic presidential candidate George McGovern, who Wednesday night delivered a corruption-and-ethics speech on national television, is working today on a debate with President Nixon, but without Nixon.

No date is fixed for the so-called debate which will show films of Nixon statements on the war, the economy and other issues, followed by McGovern's own views on the same subjects. Nixon has declined a face-to-face debate with McGovern.

In his speech Wednesday night, McGovern said: "I'm not posing here as a saint, but I'm not going to permit the White House to be controlled by special interests, I'm not going to engage in wiretapping, sabotage, political tricks."

President Nixon delivered a radio statement on education Wednesday, pledging more money for learning and less for busing.

But "money is only part of the answer," he said, adding that millions have been wasted on education programs "that did not work because not enough thought and planning went into them."

The President goes this evening to Ashland, Ky., to address a rally at a high school before returning to Washington. Sen. McGovern, who was in Detroit Wednesday, will speak today at the University of Iowa before traveling to Sacramento, Calif.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew planned appearances in Wilmington, Del., and Manchester, N.H. Democratic vice presidential candidate Sargent Shriver was to campaign in Columbia, S.C., and Detroit.

There were these developments in the alleged Republican sabotage and surveillance campaign:

—A U.S. District judge in Washington subpoenaed tapes and documents associated with interviews conducted by the Los Angeles Times. The interviews were with Alfred C. Baldwin III, a key prosecution witness in the trial of seven men charged in the break-in and alleged bugging at Democratic national headquarters in Washington on June 17.

—Los Angeles Times Editor William F. Thomas said: "As in the past, we'll oppose the subpoena of either our people or our unpublished material."

—White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied a report in The Washington Post that Nixon chief of staff H.R. Haldeman was authorized to approve payments from a secret campaign fund. He also denied the existence of the fund.

—Executive Editor Benjamin C. Bradlee said, "We stand by our story."

—Clark MacGregor, director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President, said he had been assured by Haldeman, and four others named by the Post, that they were unaware of the use of any GOP campaign funds for improper activities.

—Sen. McGovern said "the chain of scandal and corruption runs to the very heart of Mr. Nixon's White House operation."

McGovern, in his televised statement, also said: "The men who have collected millions in secret money, who have passed out special favors, who have ordered political sabotage, who have invaded our offices in the dead of night—all of these men work for Mr. Nixon."

Nixon said in his radio broadcast that neighborhood schools are "the focal point of community development" and declared: "No one profits by the resentment that is generated when whole school systems are disrupted by the forced busing of school children away from their neighborhoods."

Vice President Agnew, speaking at a rally in Columbus, Ga., predicted that "McGovernism will be nothing more than an obscure footnote in the pages of American history."

Shriver, who visited four towns in Texas, attacked Nixon's economic policies, saying the administration "pushed the prime interest rate to the highest level in history, crippling every economic sector except banking."

2nd year in UN for China

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Communist China began its second year in the United Nations today the way it began the first — as champion of the Third World countries.

Chinese delegate Chang Hsien-wu told the General Assembly's economic committee Wednesday that a proposed environment secretariat, to service a world fight on pollution, "should be established in one of the developing countries in Asia, Africa or Latin America."

Nairobi, Kenya, and New Delhi are already in the running to become home to the secretariat, along with New York, Geneva, London, Vienna, Monaco, Valletta, Malta and Nicosia.

"In our opinion," Chang declared, "the United Nations specialized agencies are now geographically over-concentrated in the United States and Europe, without adequate consideration of the needs of the developing countries and the Asian, African and Latin American regions."

The environment secretariat is part of the permanent machinery recommended by the U.N. Conference on the Human Environment in Stockholm last June.

The secretariat in its first year will have an operating budget of $1,322,600, drawn from U.N. funds. In addition, it will play a large role in the spending of a $100 million voluntary environmental aid fund, to be spread over five years. This will bring financial benefit to the continent where the secretariat was located.

Chang spoke on the same day when, a year earlier, the assembly voted the People's Republic of China into the United Nations and ousted "representatives of Chiang Kai-shek" — the Nationalist government on Taiwan.

When the Chinese Communists took their seats in the assembly the following Nov. 15, Deputy Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua declared, "China belongs to the Third World." He spoke against "the power politics and hegemony of big powers bullying small ones."

In a similar vein, Chang told the economic committee Wednesday that in some areas, "it is the policies of plunder, aggression and war wantonly pursued by the superpowers that have directly caused serious damage to the human environment."

He said that in other areas, the trouble was that "monopoly capitalist groups, with a view to seeking huge profits, will fully discharge harmful substances."

Children's Dog Show Saturday

Republican Women will hold a Children's Dog Show on the old Kroger parking lot next to the Little Red Barn Saturday, November 4, at 2 p.m. Dogs brought to the show must be friendly, clean and on a leash and they can be entered in a category as the longest ears, tails, and most talented. Sign up at 1 p.m. and the show will begin at 2 p.m. Every dog must be accompanied by a child under 18.

Economist is named

Mrs. Claudetta S. Harrod has been named Extension home economist for Nevada County, C. A. Vines, director, has announced. Her appointment, effective Nov. 1, is subject to approval of the president of the University of Arkansas. For the past month, Mrs. Harrod has been assistant home economist in Hempstead County. Before coming with Extension, she taught home economics in the Corning School System at Corning, Arkansas, and at Prescott where she taught home economics and during the past year taught science. Mrs. Harrod, the former Claudetta Shinn, was born at Russellville. She attended Ouachita Baptist University where she earned her bachelor of science degree in home economics. She is a member of the Parents-Teachers Association, Classroom Teachers Association, Home Economics Association, and Jayettes and works with the county fair association in Nevada County. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Shinn of Pickens, Arkansas, and is married to Ronald Harrod, who is self-employed in Nevada County. They have one child, Bruce, 2.

American poet Vachel Lindsay was known as the "vagabond poet," because he took long walking tours on which he recited verse in exchange for food.

Nat'l scholarship grants now available

Mrs. Bill Gunter, Hope Junior Auxiliary Scholarship Chairman, announces that National Scholarship grants ranging from $100 to $3,000 are available to graduate students majoring in fields related to the training of children with special needs. Such fields include mental health, mental retardation, speech therapy, exceptional children, and remedial reading. The scholarships allow the recipients to attend the college or university of their choice for one year, but if more than one year is required to complete studies, the recipient may reapply. The National Scholarship Committee considers the applicant's purpose in life, dedication, intellectual attainment and scholastic record. The primary purpose of the scholarships is not to honor the recipients but to present a gift to children who will benefit. Anyone interested in applying should contact Mrs. Bill Gunter, Rt. 4, Box 330, Hope, telephone 777-3519 by Wednesday, Nov. 1.

Arkansas made film to be shown here

Gradually unfurled by narrator Red Berling, Encounter with the Unknown, an Arkansas-produced spine-tingling movie, opens Sunday at the Saenger Theatre in Hope. "Encounter" is a trilogy of mysterious tales involving an interesting and controversial graveyard, which is the opening backdrop for the film, which is predominated by a mood of cold eeriness.

The story unfolds three mysterious tales involving inhabitants of the graveyard. Centronics International, founded three years ago in Little Rock, produced the film and plans to produce at least three feature films a year. Its next feature, So Sad About Gloria, is in the late stages of production. According to Harry Thomason, director, and Producer Joe Glass, Centronics is capable of making movies of the same quality that the Hollywood industry can—and do it at generally less than half the cost. They cite such places as Arkansas' varied terrain, weather and cooperation of officials and businessmen.

One of the leading actors in "Encounter" is Bob Ginnaven, vice president of a Little Rock advertising agency.

The film, rated PG, was filmed entirely in the Little Rock area and used many local people as extras.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Written Knecks American Girls RAP:

I've been reading your items while on holiday here from England. Was struck by the letter from a bird who signed herself "Straight," asking whatever happened to the "good guys."

I do not think anything happened to them. In the U.S. as in England, fellows have just realized that girls are not something special—they are equal to us, no better and no worse.

"Straight" evidently wants to be taken out, wined and dined, picked up and delivered in style, with her chair pulled out and doors opened for her as if she were a spastic. Would she do the same for me? She complains because blokes want to "meet her there" instead of "take her there." But she would never offer to take a boy to the cinema, or anywhere that requires HEK money!

You Yanks have already passed your equal pay bill and, in Britain, politicians are trying to equalize men's and women's rights. That's fine with me, but I am damned certain that I will not pay the whole tab when I go with a girl. If she earns what I earn, she can jolly well spend along with me.

Furthermore, I fail to understand why American boys bother with American girls, what with their terrible dress sense, obesity, slovenliness and general unattractiveness. I see few females over here that I fancy.

Please print this for "Straight" and others like her.—GEOFF Geoff:

Darn! I thought all English guys were like David Frost!—SUE

I agree with Sue—but with reservations: Certainly the presence of a pregnant teenager will not disrupt (or "corrupt") high school classes. Most of the kids know these days who is on the pull, who's had an abortion, and they aren't condemned. So why banish a girl because she "shows"? It's hypocritical—and I'll bet the majority of high school students agree with me.—SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE: I fell in love with John. We went together two years. I was one of those holdouts, but then we decided that it isn't wrong to really love. The only trouble: I got pregnant and I'm still in high school. At first John said he'd marry me. But I knew he didn't want to be tied down. Now he doesn't want me any more, since I won't be sensible and get an abortion. I couldn't kill his baby. John moved away last week. I'm beginning to show. Let's forget about broken hearts and silly things like that. It's school I'm thinking about. I want to keep on going to my high school, where the kids know and like me. They understand about the baby. We all know the facts of life, so I wouldn't be a "classroom disturbance," or anything.

But the school authorities say I must drop out and take special education at home. In other words, be hidden. My folks have been great about this, but they say rules are rules, and I won't be able to graduate with my class at mid-term (in January). Helen and Sue, those rules were made when unwed motherhood was a terrible disgrace (that "nice" girls weren't supposed to see). I don't say I'm proud or would push the PG teenager thing, but I'm not ashamed of having a baby and my friends aren't embarrassed by it—and almost everyone is my friend at school.

Isn't it time they changed the rules?—UNHAPPY BUT NOT ASHAMED Dear U But N.A.:

Yes, I think it is time they changed the rules about forcing pregnant teenagers out of regular high school classes. Most of the kids know these days who is on the pull, who's had an abortion, and they aren't condemned. So why banish a girl because she "shows"? It's hypocritical—and I'll bet the majority of high school students agree with me.—SUE

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The expression, "our country, right or wrong," was originated by Stephen Decatur, a U.S. naval officer, at a dinner in his honor at Norfolk, Va., in 1816. The original quote, given as a toast, was: "Our Country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right and always successful, right or wrong." The World Almanac notes.

Man-caused fires on California's public land were reduced 33 per cent in 1971.

Learning begins at home PAR harnesses parent power

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It's raining. The mailbox offers no diversions — just junk mail and bills. The housework is done. You've read every book you own barring one dictionary. On television there's dullsville, channel after channel. The kids are bored indoors. And your parental halo shortly becomes a perfect square, the corners sharpened with each cry of, "MA, there's nothing to do!"

Faced with this problem themselves a team of three teachers and one social worker (all mothers) used their free time to devise a workshop training program for parents and children, with accompanying written materials, that will establish learning in a child and restore the sweetness and light to mom's disposition not just on rainy days but on all days.

The program started by these four Chicago mothers as a kitchen-table project is now a full-time job for them. And their booklets of "Recipes for Fun," strengthen the role of the parent as the prime resource in the child's early development.

PAR (Parents As Resource) has now sold over 20,000 copies of the activity booklet to Head Start day-care homes and centers and universities and has received numerous requests for the booklet from HEW in Washington. Their new booklet, "More Recipes for Fun," aimed at ages 3 to 11, has just been released.

The four women, Ann Cole, Carolyn Haas, Elizabeth Heller and Betty Weinberger, believe that the first six years are the most important ones in establishing the child's potential intelligence, creativity and awareness of his world.

"Parents play a key role in the child's early learning process," said Carolyn Haas. "A close parent-child relationship is of primary importance. But parents need support and encouragement as well as tangible materials to assume that role with confidence."

The PAR founders say that many parents underestimate their own creativity and the impact that home-centered learning experiences can have on a child's future attitude toward learning.

"We surveyed the activity booklets available to parents," Ann Cole said, "and discovered that although some were excellent many were too wordy, too complicated and too expensive."

"The need for a simple handbook was evident — one focusing on easy home projects requiring minimal preparation and 'saved' rather than 'purchased' materials."

Betty Weinberger remarked that they were often asked how four women could collaborate for such a long time successfully.

The PAR founders have held their workshops for over two years now, carting boxes, cans, twigs, macaroni

(for jewelry) and other useful oddments to parent groups, educational meetings, settlement and day-care homes and hospitals to use in teaching school-parent groups. And they have worked closely together in their "recipes."

"Our 'think' sessions," Betty said, "usually reflect divergent opinions which greatly strengthen our efforts. Each decision is a synthesis of different training and orientation. The result is a far richer fabric than any of us could produce alone."

They are constantly generating new recipes for workshops. Where do they get their ideas? One came from their own childhood play, some from their children, other teachers, other activity books. And many, they admit, they just dream up when the need arises.

Liz Heller, artist for the project, is delighted with the whole program. "PAR gives me a chance to get away from home and my own two small boys," she cheerfully admitted. "Artwork takes concentration. So I particularly look forward to the drawing board in our new office as a quiet place to work."

Every day is a new adventure for these four mothers.

They find themselves rushing to the typewriter or to the mailbox to see the postmarks on their mail. It's an exciting combination of writing, publishing, teaching and consulting which has grown from a kitchen table to their own office which just was opened this past Aug. 1.

"We want to continue to meet a need and reach parents of all ages and levels of income, education and ability," Ann Cole said. "We hope eventually to set up a chain reaction of parent-teaching-parent at home in small kitchen workshops to develop the creative role of the parent as the child's first teacher."

Bobcats host Camden

By ALAN FOSTER
Star Sports Writer

It's Homecoming. Camden is coming to town. The stage is set for another 7AA conference game.

You may think that since Magnolia has wrapped up the conference that the rest of Hope's games will be an unnecessary evil, but you've got another thought coming.

You see Hope needs to win this to wipe out still another jinx which plagued this year's Bobcat seniors since they were sophomores. They have never won a homecoming game.

The Hope-Camden rivalry is intense. Last year's game was a seesaw battle which Hope finally won 27-22.

This year's game could be just as intense. Camden's record doesn't show it but they have a fine football team. And they will give Hope a fight they will never forget.

But Hope has pride and the factors it takes to make a top rate squad. They should overcome.

Former Bobcats to hold reunion

The former Hope Bobcat football players and coaches of 1946-47-48 will celebrate their first reunion Friday during homecoming festivities in Hope. Teams during this period were sprinkled with World War II veterans and some of Hope's all-time great athletes. During the 1946-48 period, these Bobcats won 29 games while losing only seven, playing a twelve-game schedule against the likes of Little Rock, Pine Bluff, El Dorado, Texarkana, Benton, Smackover, Camden, Malvern, DeQueen, Magnolia, Hot Springs, and Jonesboro.

Coaches during this period — Joe Dildy, Nolan Tollett and Lawrence Martin — will attend. A stag dinner is planned prior to the Hope-Camden game and the men will re-group at the Hope Country Club immediately after the game to visit with friends and relatives.

Olympic officials form protest

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. Olympic officials are assembling a massive protest of Russia's controversial basketball victory at the Munich Games, but admit chances are slim of overturning the gold medal result.

"History is against us," Arthur Lentz, executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said today. "But we hope to prove a point for the good of future competition."

The protest is to be ruled upon by the International Olympic Committee's executive committee.

The Russians got a disputed extra chance to score in the closing seconds of the basketball final at Munich and scored at the final buzzer for a 81-80 victory.

However, the United States claims it was wronged and that the game should have ended with the Americans taking a 80-80 verdict for their ninth straight Olympic title.

"We have depositions from four officials who worked at the scorer's table," said Lentz, "and each one backs our claims. Now, the referee says Russia should not have been given that chance to win."

Renato Righetto of Sao Paulo, Brazil, the referee, said in a statement prepared for the U.S. Olympic dossier that Russia's triumph was "completely irregular and outside the rules."

He added, "If interpreters had been put at the scorer's desk, the timekeeper could have told the referees what was going on."

Righetto blamed the setting back of the time clock to three seconds on William Jones, secretary of the International Amateur Basketball Federation (FIBA).

The U.S. Committee's main gripe was against FIBA, which governs international basketball play including in the Olympic and Pan-American Games.

Lentz claimed FIBA and its full-time administrator, Jones, should be suspended from such activity until it is proven that "all nations are getting a fair shake."

He said it was futile to appeal to FIBA, "since he will find no court there."

Lentz said FIBA and Jones, an Englishman, tried to "wear down the favored Americans" in the 1971 Pan Am Games in Cali, Colombia, by putting the best three teams in the same bracket.

He added that FIBA and United States amateur organizations had been battling for years over American claims that they were being short-changed in international play.

Cleveland breaks losing streak

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia 76ers wanted to break their six-game losing streak, but the Cleveland Cavaliers, with a seven-game losing streak of their own, had other ideas.

Cleveland, filling last place in the National Basketball Association Central Division, had to stave off a comeback by the 76ers for a 113-108 victory, their first of the season.

The 76ers, in last place in the Atlantic Division, fought back from a 101-88 score to pull within three points at 108-106, but

Austin Carr, who finished the game with 35 points, scored the Cavaliers' last four to beat winless Philadelphia.

Fred Carter led the 76ers with 39 points while Lenny Wilkens had 28 for the Cavaliers.

In other NBA games, Milwaukee beat Buffalo 100-92, Baltimore whipped Detroit 115-105, Los Angeles topped Houston 112-107 and Atlanta edged Seattle 118-115.

In the American Basketball Association, it was Carolina 118, Denver 112 and Kentucky 116, Dallas 108.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and

Mickey Davis led a Milwaukee comeback. The Bucks had led by 14 points at the half but trailed 74-73 in the third quarter. Jabbar scored a total of 25 points in the game while Davis hit six in the crucial surge. Rookie Bob McAdoo hit 16 for Buffalo.

Was Unseed netted 10 points and Dave Stallworth and Mike Davis eight each in a fourth-period Baltimore rally. The Bullets had trailed by 25-79 after three periods. Detroit's Curtis Rowe led all players with 28 points and Mike Riordan led the Bullets with 24.

Los Angeles also had to come back in order to beat Houston. The Lakers trailed by 10 points with 4:30 left but outscored the Rockets 17-3 the rest of the way. Jerry West had 33 points for the Lakers while Don Smith as 23 and Jack Marin 22 for Houston.

A seven-point burst by Atlanta in 1 1/2 minutes in the last four minutes contributed to its victory over Seattle. Lou Hudson, who led the Hawks with 34 points, got a three-point play in the brief rally. Seattle, which trailed by 12 in the first half, came back to lead by 11 in the final period before Atlanta's spree. Spencer Haywood hit 33 points and John Brisker 22 for the Sonics.

Walt Simon came off the bench to score 18 points in the second half and spark Kentucky after Dallas had gotten within three points. Dan Issel finished with 29 points for Kentucky while teammate Artis Gilmore had 18 points, 25 rebounds and seven blocked shots. Collis Jones had 31 points for the Chaps and Rich Jones had 26.

World Bass Classic opens

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A 27-year-old chemist who has been fishing for 21 years held a sizeable lead one-third of the way through the second annual World Bass Masters Classic, which pays $10,000 to the winner.

Ricky Green of Arkadelphia, Ark., caught the limit of 10 bass, which weighed a total of 15 pounds and 12 ounces, in Wednesday's opening day of competition.

Green, who has career earnings of more than $4,200 in fishing competition, was the only one of the 24 contestants to catch the limit.

NCAA issues reprimands

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The University of California at Berkeley, California State University at Sacramento and North Carolina State have been put on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

St. John's University of Jamaica, N. Y., was reprimanded. The action against all four was taken Wednesday by the 18-member NCAA council, meeting in Knoxville, for violating recruiting and other rules.

California had a previous probationary period extended to Feb. 1, 1973. It had been placed on probation Aug. 1, 1971.

California State was put on probation for two years and North Carolina State for one year, both effective Tuesday.

California was penalized for a series of violations, the most serious of which was a charge that two former assistant football coaches had arranged for two prospective athletes to be given fraudulent grades from a junior college.

Other violations included free tickets to a professional contest for its football team and improper financial assistance to athletes.

California State was disciplined for using three ineligible athletes in the 1971 NCAA College Division track and field championships and for erroneously certifying 13 athletes as eligible under the 1.6 grade point eligibility rule.

North Carolina State was set down because an assistant basketball coach participated in at least one informal basketball game with five prospective athletes and two prospects were given financial assistance to attend a summer school session.

St. John's was reprimanded for having a press luncheon last April 19 to announce the signing of two athletes.

Hearings on the alleged violations were conducted in Knoxville Tuesday.

Meanwhile, the council also voted to submit a proposal to the NCAA convention in January calling for the NCAA to adopt a drug-testing program for college athletes.

The council also will recommend to the convention that the 1.6 grade point requirement for recruiting athletes be relaxed.

High school predictions

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Little Rock Hall has been downright rude to Fort Smith Northside the past few years.

The Grizzlies would like nothing better than to return the favor Friday night.

Hall has beaten Northside three straight years—the first team to string together three triumphs over the Grizzlies since Pine Bluff in 1952-54. Last year, Hall won 21-7. The year before, 44-14. In 1960, a 14-7 victory stopped Northside's 33-game unbeaten streak.

For the first time since 1964, Northside is out of the conference race in October. The Grizzlies are 2-2-1 in AAAA play and League-leading North Little Rock Ole Main is 5-0. Hall is 4-1 and Little Rock Catholic 3-1.

Northside quarterback Kirby Lockhart was throwing well early in the season and then was hurt. He appears to be rolling again and the Grizzlies hope to pass against the Warriors.

Hall has been one of the most impressive teams in the state the past few weeks. The Warriors will need all their weapons Friday night.

LR HALL 14, FS NORTH-SIDE 10.

Marked Tree and Truman meet Friday night in a match-up between Class A and AA powers.

Marked Tree of District 3A-East is 8-0 for the season and ranked second in the Class A poll. Truman, a member of Region 3AA, has lost only to highly regarded Newport and is 7-1 for the season.

Marked Tree may strike a blow for Class A.

MARKED TREE 20, TRUMANN 14.

Two other Class AA powers, Sheridan and Malvern, get together at Sheridan.

Sheridan has wrapped up the Region 6AA title, but was upset last week by Little Rock Mills. Malvern is second to Magnolia in Region 7AA. The Leopards have lost only to Magnolia and Hot Springs.

MALVERN 14, SHERIDAN 13.

Last week's record was 32-10, a .763 percentage.

Here are the other predictions involving AAAA, AAA and AA schools around the state:

El Dorado 19, LR Parkview 14; LR Central 20, NLR North-east 7; NLR Ole Main 14, Pine Bluff 7; LR McClellan 20, Blytheville 6; Forrest City 14, Stuttgart 8; Clarkdale, Miss., 7, Helena 6; West Memphis 13, Jacksonville 7; Morrilton 20, Sylvan Hills 14; Conway 14, Benton 6; Hot Springs 23, Fayetteville 7; Springdale 30, FS Southside 13; Alma 13, Rogers 7; Russellville 20, Texarkana 19; Seneca, Mo., 7, Bentonville 6; Harrison 20, Hillcrest 12; and Huntsville 27, Green Forest 13.

Batesville 19, Mountain Home 13; Slossom Springs 20, East Newton, Mo., 14; Mena 13, Nashville 6; Van Buren 20, St. Annes 13; Gosnell 20, Rivercrest 14; Newport 27, Poca-hontas 13; Paragould 14, Osceola 13; Brinkley 27, Marvell 12; Wayne 23, DeWitt 14; Harding Academy 13, Hughes 7. ## Dodgers give Mills waiver

Maury Wills, the baseball player who broke Ty Cobb's stolen base record, was put on waivers by the Los Angeles Dodgers Wednesday.

Wills is 40 years old. The Dodgers said they offered him an instructor's job with the team. He was used little during the 1972 season, playing in just 71 games and batting .120.

He started with the Dodgers in 1959 but was traded to Pittsburgh in 1967 and Montreal in 1969 before returning to Los Angeles. His career batting average was .284.

Wills was best known as a baserunner. In 1963, he stole 104 bases, breaking Cobb's mark of 96. He stole 586 bases in his career.

He is one of the veteran black ballplayers who is often mentioned as the possible first black manager in the major leagues.

Under the major league waiver rule, he can be claimed until Monday, after which he would be a free agent able to negotiate his own contract.

Julian Javier, another veteran infielder, was put on waivers by the Cincinnati Reds for the purpose of giving him his outright release.

Javier, 36, is a 13-year player in the National League.

In other baseball happenings Wednesday, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn said he hoped the minor league system would be cut back because of the great expense it is causing to the major league teams. He said each team spends about $1.5 million per year for its farm teams or about $35-40 million per year.

Kuhn said it is an enormous drain on the owners because baseball and hockey are the only sports that now develop their own player talent since basketball and football draft their players from college.

Detroit closed out the Woody Fryman trade by selling catcher Tom Haller and minor league pitcher Don Leshock to Philadelphia. Fryman, a left-hander, was acquired by the Tigers late in the season and helped in the team's drive to the American League East pennant.

Basketball scores

Here are the results of last night's games at Guernsey Gym: In the first game at 7:00 p.m. Young American Homes downed Davis Discount by the score of 90 to 83. Jones and Griffin were the leading scorers for the winners with 24 points each. Jackson had 19, and East sank 15 for the losers. In the second game at 8:30 p.m. Perry's Truck Stop defeated Butane Gas 92 to 73. Leading scorers for Perry's were Loe and Henley with 20 and 14 respectively. Phelps pumped in 14, and Walker shot 12 for the losers. Next games are scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 26 when Zeco plays Anderson-Frazier at 7:00 o'clock, and at 8:30 p.m. Davis Discount takes on Tex-Ark Joist.

Ups and downs

In independent basketball action Wednesday night, league leader Perry's Truck Stop, in white uniforms, downed the Butane Gas team. Above, Larry Walker of the Butane Gas team, goes against Paul Henley for possession of a rebound, while below, Walker is joined by several other players as they eye the ball.

Whither Cy Young?

Steve Carlton of Philadelphia, right, is a heavy favorite to win the 1972 Cy Young Award as the National League's best pitcher, having recorded a league-leading 27 wins and 1.98 earned run average with the last place Phillies. But the American League award is up for grabs. The leading contenders are Cleveland's Gaylord Perry (24-16, 1.92 ERA), below left; Detroit's Mickey Lolich (22-14, 2.50), below center; Chicago's Wilbur Wood (24-17, 2.51), below right; Oakland's Jim Hunter (21-7, 2.04), bottom left; and Baltimore's Jim Palmer (21-10, 2.07), bottom right.

Hogs solve linebacker problem

For years, Arkansas coach Frank Broyles has enjoyed talking about the linebacker prospects on his Razorback football team.

Traditionally, the Hogs have had some of the best athletes to ever play in the Southwest Conference at that position.

And this year was to be no different for Arkansas. In fact, Broyles and his staff would insist three of the league's best would be supporting the Razorback defensive line.

Certainly, Broyles and his staff had every justification for their optimism.

Danny Rhodes had earned sophomore defensive player of the year honors for his play at strongside linebacker last year, and Scott Binnion and John Wheat had the savvy, speed and strength to compliment him.

"Rhodes, Binnion and Wheat are fine football players," Broyles said in August. "They should provide us excellent strength at linebacker."

But now, preparing for the seventh game of the season, Broyles and his staff must make their defensive game-plan for North Texas State University without any of this trio available for duty.

First, Binnion was helped from the field against Tulsa with a severe knee injury, and it is very questionable if he will return to action this season.

Then, against Baylor two games later, Wheat broke his thumb. That injury probably would not have been very bad, but it was in the joint connecting the thumb with the hand, requiring the entire area to be isolated by a cast.

And last Saturday at Texas, Rhodes, who was selected the outstanding defensive player in the contest, went out of the game in the fourth quarter with a knee injury.

So this week, senior Jim Benton, junior Ed Rownd and sophomore Bill Burns take over the Razorback linebacker positions.

"We certainly have a great deal of confidence in Benton, Rownd and Burns," said Broyles. "But there is no doubt we will miss our experienced linebackers."

"North Texas likes to throw the football, and experience is the best teacher when you attempt to fill the passing lanes with your linebackers dropping away from the line of scrimmage," Broyles continued.

Benton has logged more playing time than Rownd and Burns. He alternated in the middle last year with Wheat and moved to end as a starter this fall. But Saturday, Benton will start in a new position, weakside linebacker.

Rownd was the alternate at both outside positions last year, but broke his leg against Tulsa and received limited experience as a sophomore letterman.

He has been the primary replacement for Binnion and Rhodes this season.

Burns is the most inexperienced linebacker of the trio. He is a hard-hitting sophomore with good potential.

"I thought we had some depth at linebacker before the season began," Broyles said. "We'll find out Saturday against North Texas."

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. in War Memorial Stadium at Little Rock.

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP) — The Class AA Eastern League will return to Waterbury, Conn., for the 1973 baseball season after a one-year absence.

The league's board of directors approved Wednesday transfer of the Elmira, N.Y., franchise to a Waterbury group headed by Probate Judge Frederick Mascolo. Waterbury was a member of the league from 1966 until 1971, when the franchise was moved to Sherbrooke, Que.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Steve Boros and Dale McReynolds have been named top minor league manager and scout, respectively, in the Kansas City Royals' baseball organization for 1972, the club announced Wednesday night.

Boros led Waterloo to a second-place finish in the Class A Midwest League. McReynolds is the Royals' Midwest scouting director.

Brodie seriously injured

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It appears San Francisco 49ers' quarterback John Brodie may be injured more seriously than thought as the team physician says Brodie will have to wear a cast at least two more weeks.

This means Brodie may be sidelined for the Nov. 12 game against the Green Bay Packers and not play until the following National Football League game against Baltimore.

"To tell you the truth," Coach Dick Nolan said Wednesday, "I don't know how long he'll be out now. I keep hearing all these different reports. I can only say that I was told he'd be ready to play against Green Bay."

However, team physician Dr. Lloyd Milburn said Brodie, who was injured against the Giants Oct. 15, will have to wear his cast at least two more weeks.

MRS. MAXINE HAMILTON

Maxine Hamilton is HC representative

The Hempstead County Unit of the American Cancer Society, was represented by Maxine Hamilton at a district planning meeting held in Nashville last Thursday.

In the business session of the meeting, delegates from the six-county District nominated Mrs. Billy Gray of Locksburg as the Lay Director to represent District No. 14 on the Division Board. The counties included are Hempstead, Howard, Lafayette, Little River, Pike, and Sevier. The formal election will take place at the Annual Meeting of the Arkansas Division of the Society to be held in Little Rock, November 16, 1972.

The delegates were told how the services provided cancer patients can be obtained. Through this program, hospital beds, wheelchairs, dressings and other items to help make cancer patients being cared for at home more comfortable, are provided to any family in Arkansas needing this service. They also learned what the Division is doing to help in the Rehabilitation of the Ostomy patient through the services of Mrs. Wilma Hoyle, Enterostomal Therapist, who was present to explain this new program.

The Educational Program for the coming year was outlined and explained, and a film entitled, "The Lyn Helton Story" was previewed. This film depicts the dramatic story of a 20 year old woman's bout with cancer. The delegates also heard the goal of the "TASK FORCE ON UTERINE CANCER", the new accelerated effort of the Society to see that every woman over 20 years of age has an annual "pap" test, explained.

Bryant said 'arrogant'

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Secretary of State Kelly Bryant has "grown unbearably arrogant" while in office, Jerry Climer, Republican candidate for secretary of state, said Wednesday.

"He (Bryant) acts as if he does not have to answer questions of the press, even during controversies arising from the mismanagement of office," Climer said. "He seems to feel that he does not have to go to voters — to look them in the eye and account for his actions in office."

Climer said Bryant continues to keep his wife on his payroll at $11,500 a year as an "executive secretary," which he said violates the Code of Ethics law.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Psychiatrists have a medical degree

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have always thought the difference between a psychologist and a psychiatrist was the latter having a medical degree. Why, if people have problems, do they not generally see a psychologist rather than a psychiatrist?

Dear Reader—A psychiatrist is a physician who has completed college, medical school, and usually an internship before his specialty training in psychiatry. This means he should be able to practice general medicine if he chose to do so as is the case with other specialists. His psychiatric training may then go into further specialization including analytical psychiatry or child psychiatry as two examples.

Psychologists usually have a Ph.D., meaning they have graduated from college and then taken additional graduate training in their field, but have not attended medical school. This means they could not practice general medicine. They might know a great deal about the psychodynamics of an individual, but they would not be expected to know the details of diagnosing digestive disorders, nor would they be licensed to treat such things as a peptic ulcer or hepatitis. There are several types of psychologists. Some are experimental psychologists who sometimes deal with problems quite removed from the practice of medicine.

Many good psychologists work in conjunction with psychiatrists administering complex psychological tests and providing psychological counseling for people who do have psychological problems. Sometimes physicians refer patients to psychologists for additional help when that is the main problem involved.

Psychologists never become analysts in the sense that a psychiatrist may, since psychoanalysis isn't the main thrust of their training or the application of their skills. In general I think it a mistake to adopt an attitude of either psychiatrist or psychologist. Both of these disciplines perform a very useful function. Psychologists are particularly useful in school situations (including the psychology of learning) and organizational structures where human behavior factors are important, even though the individuals involved may not be disturbed or having any psychiatric illness. On the other hand a person with schizophrenic psychosis for example needs treatment with a full complement of services usually including the administration of medicines which cannot be prescribed by a psychologist since they must be prescribed by a physician. In my experience, psychiatrists and psychologists work well together in a team effort.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Can skin cancer be cured? I've got a sore that won't heal and I am worried to death. If it can be cured, I would like to know how.

Dear Reader—Skin cancers, if detected and treated early, can be cured completely. Depending on their nature, they can either be cut out removing the entire cancer with a small incision for small cancers (the scar is usually inconspicuous thereafter) or more superficial ones can be removed with chemical substances that burn or destroy the cancer cells on the surface of the skin.

Battle for Senate control is a tight one

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican and Democratic strategists agree that the battle for Senate control in the 93rd Congress is a tight one with the outcome in some doubt in 19 of the 33 races to be decided Nov. 7.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings, D-S.C., chairman of the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee, says he is more optimistic about the close races than he was two months ago and is confident his party will remain on top in the Senate.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., head of the counterpart Republican groups, insists the GOP has the best chance in 18 years to capture the Senate.

The arithmetic seems to favor the Democrats because they have a 10-member margin now and have only 14 seats at stake this fall as against 19 for the Republicans.

This means the GOP would have to win 24 contests, for a net gain of five, to take Senate control. The dominant party holds all committee chairmanships and governs the flow of legislation.

The present lineup is 54 Democrats and 44 Republicans, plus one member of the New York Conservative Party, James L. Buckley, who voted with the GOP on organization of the Senate last year, and a Virginia independent, Harry F. Byrd Jr., who sided with the Democrats on Senate control.

If Republicans should gain five seats, there would be a tie which the successful candidate for vice president could break in favor of his party.

Campaign strategists cite 10 Democratic seats which could be lost to Republicans, and nine GOP places which seem to be up for grabs.

Republicans say they expect their Senate contenders to ride in on President Nixon's coattails in many of the states.

Several Democratic contenders are tacitly conceding

the thrust of this argument by taking steps to keep the presidential campaign of Sen. George McGovern at arm's length from their efforts.

Republican strategists zero in on four contests where they see the best chances of taking over Democratic seats.

In three of these, the incumbent is not running for reelection. They are:

New Mexico—where veteran Sen. Clinton P. Anderson is retiring. Vying for the seat are Democrat Jack Daniels, a banker and insurance executive, and Republican Pete V. Domenici, an attorney.

Oklahoma—where Sen. Fred R. Harris decided not to seek reelection. The Republican nominee is Dewey F. Bartlett, a former governor. His opponent is Rep. Ed Edmondson, a 10-term congressman.

Georgia—where Sen. David H. Gambrell was defeated in the primary. Rep. Fletcher Thompson is the Republican nominee. He is opposed by State Rep. Sam Nunn.

The fourth contest where the Republicans have high hopes is in Rhode Island, where Democratic Sen. Claiborne Pell is trying for a third term against the challenge of John H. Chafee, ex-governor and former Secretary of the Navy.

The Democrats also cite four GOP seats which they consider ripe for plucking and, again, three involve races where the incumbent is leaving the Senate. They are:

South Dakota—where Sen. Karl E. Mundt is retiring after being incapacitated for three years with a stroke. Democratic Rep. James Abourezk is running against State Sen. Robert Hirsch.

Kentucky—where Sen. John S. Cooper is retiring. State Sen. Walter Huddleston is the Democratic nominee; his opponent is former Gov. Louie B. Nunn.

Idaho—where Sen. Len B. Jordan is leaving. William E.

Davis, on leave as president of Idaho State University, holds the Democratic nomination; he is opposed by Rep. James A. McClure.

The fourth state listed by the Democrats as offering good prospects for an overturn is Texas. Republican Sen. John G. Tower, is trying for a third term; his opponent is Barefoot Sanders, a former assistant attorney general and White House aide under President Lyndon B. Johnson.

Republicans say they also have good prospects in three other Southern states—Alabama, where Democratic Sen. John Sparkman is challenged by Winton M. Blount, former postmaster general under Nixon; Virginia, where Sen. William B. Spong, Jr., is opposed by Rep. William L. Scott; and North Carolina, where Sen. B. Everett Jordan lost in the Democratic primary to Rep. Nick Gaillorakis who now faces Jesse Helms, a television broadcaster.

THERE'S A LOT RIDING ON YOUR VOTE.

You have to put your work out of your mind now and then. So you can unwind. With your family. Your kids. Or maybe by yourself. But you have to be confident in your work, in your future, to really let go and live. You can help a lot of guys all over Arkansas breathe a little easier by voting for Act 1, because passage of Act 1 will mean that farmers and businessmen won't be burdened by special shipping charges. Even the extra train crew members—who are the center of the whole controversy—will enjoy more secure positions when Act 1 becomes State law. Study the issue. The more you know about it, the more you will be convinced you must vote FOR Act 1.

Wallace: Waiting in the wings

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace, who wanted the job himself, is caught in the middle in the presidential election. He has not endorsed any candidate nor is he likely to now. The risk of political retribution is too great.

So Wallace is waiting it out, perhaps to run again himself in 1976 as he has said he may do if his health permits.

Wallace campaigned for the Democratic presidential nomination until he was wounded May 15 at Laurel, Md., in an assassination attempt which left him paralyzed in the legs.

His disagreement with Sen. George McGovern over such issues as school busing and the war in Vietnam, and his off-expressed dissatisfaction with the Democratic party platform made it all but impossible from the outset for Wallace to support McGovern as the presidential nominee.

It became obvious, too, that McGovern has little chance, if any, to carry Alabama. Even if the governor wanted to endorse him for the sake of party loyalty, it would invite reprisals from disgruntled voters if Wallace runs for office again in the state.

And there is increasing evidence that he probably will seek a third term as governor in 1974. The state constitution allows him to do that now.

Wallace has endorsed all Democrats running for congressional, state and local offices in Alabama, but he pointedly refrained from asking the voters to support McGovern. To some, that omission was an implied invitation to vote for President Nixon. But the governor did not ask them to do so.

An endorsement of a Republican president not only would jeopardize Wallace's standing in the Democratic party nationally and weaken what chance he might have in 1976, but it could bring retribution at home, serious enough, perhaps, to disqualify him from running for governor as a Democrat.

The state Democratic executive committee, which runs the party at the state level, is strongly anti-Wallace, so much so that it handpicked party nominees for presidential election this year rather than take a chance on letting the governor use the party machinery in Alabama in another third-party race as he did in 1968.

In that election, Wallace ran under the emblem of what is now the American party elsewhere but as a Democrat in his own state.

The regular Democratic electors chosen by the people were pledged to the governor instead of the national party ticket.

The handpicked electors this year are committed to McGovern.

The same state Democratic committee will make the rules in Alabama for the 1974 primary and could reinstate an old loyalty oath to punish rebellious Democrats.

That oath said, in essence, that no one could run in the party primary who had opposed the Democratic nominees in the last preceding election. If adopted for the 1974 primary, it would disqualify anyone who supported Nixon.

Rail company violates NLR pollution code

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Municipal Court Judge Milton McLees found Missouri Pacific Railroad guilty Wednesday of violating the state Air Pollution Control Code. He fined the railroad $150.

The company was charged with improperly transporting decaying fish through Arkansas on Aug. 23.

The state Department of Pollution Control and Ecology said the fish came from New Jersey and sat in the North Little Rock yards 12 hours and that the odor from the fish violated the air pollution code.

In another case, Wallace Van Pelt of North Little Rock, owner-operator of a private dump in the McAlmont Community, was found guilty on four counts and fined a total of $125 for violations of the air code.

Van Pelt was charged with operating a solid waste disposal facility without a permit and with three counts of open burning of garbage and trade waste.

Van Pelt appealed the decision.

Summary of peace terms listed

HONG KONG (AP) — This is North Vietnam's summary of the peace terms it says it and the United States agreed to:

1. The United States will respect the independence, sovereignty, unification and territorial integrity of Vietnam.
2. The United States will stop all bombing of North Vietnam and all mining of North Vietnamese waters. Twenty-four hours after the peace agreement is signed, a cease-fire will take effect in all of South Vietnam. All American and allied troops will be withdrawn within 60 days.
3. After signing, steps will be taken for the immediate return of prisoners of war held by both sides.
4. At cease-fire, the two present administrations in South Vietnam (the South Vietnamese government and the Viet Cong) will negotiate with each other to set up elections for a national coalition government. The two administrations will also negotiate with each other on disposition and reduction of the troops of each side.

5. Unification of North and South Vietnam will be "realized gradually by peaceful means."

6. An international committee on military control and supervision will be formed and an international conference on Vietnam will be called within 30 days of the signing of the peace agreement.

7. The sovereignty and neutrality of Cambodia and Laos will be recognized by all parties in the Vietnam War. The United States will end all military activities in Laos and Cambodia, withdraw all troops and not reintroduce troops or weapons into Laos and Cambodia.

8. Ending of the war will create conditions for establishment of relations between the United States and North Vietnam under which the United States will contribute to reconstruction in North Vietnam and throughout all Indochina.

9. The peace agreement will take effect immediately upon being signed by the U.S. and North Vietnam.

ASTRO-GRAPH

BY BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday, Oct. 26

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY

Your basic attitude will undergo a change. Those near to you will command more attention. Promising new opportunities. Guard against overoptimism.

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 19): Don't push others unreasonably to further your aims. Resentment and the desire for revenge could result.

TAURUS (Apr 20-May 20): You're more fortunate working with another as a team. Alone, you're more likely to overestimate your capabilities.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Several interesting choices face you. Hasty judgment could urge you toward unwise changes.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A speculative venture has caught your attention. It could be promising if other-keep their end of the bargain.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22): An influential person can help you get what you think you want. Take a closer look—its benefits may be inflated.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22): An idea from a friend may sound appealing. In the long run, it could cost more than you're willing to pay.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23): Even though you're likely to profit in the final analysis, you'll probably resent how the matter was handled.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22): Your initiative and drive achieve desired results. Boasting or exaggerating your accomplishments draws hidden restraints.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21): Changes you contemplate look very worthwhile, provided they don't offend friends or cost too much.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19): Things look hopeful, though certain conditions prevent all the pieces from fitting together comfortably.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19): Your accomplishments are meritorious. They will be recognized and appreciated. However, unforeseen circumstances dull your edge.

PISCES (Feb 20-Mar 20): Today has a lot of bright spots for you. Don't let the hollow promises of a friend cause you to harbor resentment.

Dream Boat

Building a concrete boat in a Hackettstown, N. J., backyard, to sail around the world in, isn't a fantasy. It may have started as a dream, but it's on its way to becoming reality for Leo "Red" Grogan. He's building himself a 64-foot staysail schooner, Serpent Queen, at home in Hackettstown, and he's been planning for over seven years to sail away with his family on a permanent voyage of discovery "to see what the rest of the world is like." The family numbers six: Grogan, his wife, Andrea, and their four children. With his fiery red beard and one gold earring hanging from his left ear, Grogan already has the air of a sea adventurer. He has a four-year hitch with the Navy behind him. Once at sea, he expects to keep the enterprise solvent by picking up work wherever he goes: he can turn his hand to various kinds of industrial maintenance, mining, construction and engineering work. The pictures on this page show him at work on his boat's metal frame—the next step was to shape the outer shell using a simplified plastering technique with ferro cement.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

MacDuff, the best player in Scotland, looked over the dummy carefully. As usual, MacBeth had overbid, but the small slam was a good one. In fact, seven would wheel in if clubs and hearts both broke.

MacDuff was not an optimist. Good players seldom are. He decided to give himself the best play for his contract by ducking the first spade to establish a squeeze situation in case suits broke badly.

This process is known as "rectifying the count," since it brings the squeeze within one sure trick of the number he wants.

West continued with the jack of spades. MacDuff took his trick and mentally thanked West for telling him where the queen was.

Then MacDuff cashed the ace, king and queen of hearts. West discarded a diamond and MacDuff showed his hand remarking, "It doesn't matter how the clubs break. If either one of you has the suit stopped now I will squeeze him by running off four diamonds."

As true Scots, neither East or West would concede, but they were dead. MacDuff chuckled his last heart on the fourth diamond. East was in no trouble. He never could stop anything but hearts, but West had to let a club go in order to hold the spade queen.

What would MacDuff have done if East held the clubs and West the hearts? He would have been set because there would not have been any way to make 12 tricks. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
